The Civic Center will be the heart of the community, setting the standard for future economic development in design and renewable energy infrastructure. For decades, the WAC served as the social services center for the citizens of Oakridge, Westfir and surrounding rural east Lane County, until roof leaks and electrical issues made the building uninhabitable. Thanks to this Congressional funding, the City of Oakridge is one step closer to being able to bring back these services and repair the building and transform it into a state-of-the-art Resilience Hub, emergency operations center, cleaner air space, food bank, medical service provider, and disaster recovery center. We are very grateful to our Congressional Delegation for their continued support of projects like this, which are vital to rural Oregonians like us." Said James Cleavenger, Oakridge City Administrator.

Funding for our facility repairs will assist us in continuing to provide mental health therapy for low-income folks in our rural service area of Lane County, Oregon; regardless of their ability to pay for services, a tradition we have kept since our inception in 1988."
